From the President

2020 was a year that will stand as unique in our history. The global catastrophe of the COVID-19 pandemic forever changed the way we all live, work, and move through the world. Public safety measures to slow the spread of the virus forced Audubon to close all public facilities during the peak of our busy season—when we make the majority of the revenue that sustains our operations through the year. The devastating financial impact and absence of governmental financial aid for zoos and aquariums left Audubon no choice but to drastically scale down operations, including laying off close to 75% of our staff.

But, through it all, your support allowed us to provide exceptional care for the animals and parks that you love.

Because of your generosity, Audubon made incredible strides toward recovery as the Zoo and Aquarium reopened to the public and the vaccine's arrival brought new hope for a return to normalcy. This historic year of seemingly insurmountable challenges highlighted our community's remarkable strength and resilience. I thank you, our donors and Members, for going above and beyond to help Audubon in its recovery.

Despite 2020 being a year characterized by losses, your generosity gave us reasons to hope. Please enjoy this Annual Report as a celebration of the impact of your philanthropy. We look to the future with optimism, ready to embark on new adventures and new ways to educate and inspire our community.

Audubon Nature Institute Mission and Purpose

Audubon Nature Institute
Celebrating the Wonders of Nature

Audubon Nature Institute is a 501(c)3 not for profit that operates a family of museums and parks dedicated to nature.

Purpose Celebrating the Wonders of Nature

Vision Creating a family of museums and parks dedicated to nature

Mission Eight objectives support our mission:

- Provide a guest experience of outstanding quality.
- Exhibit the diversity of wildlife.
- Preserve native Louisiana habitats.
- Educate our diverse audience about the natural world.
- Enhance the care and survival of wildlife through research and conservation.
- Provide opportunities for recreation in natural settings.
- Operate a financially self-sufficient collection of museums and parks.
- Weave quality entertainment through the guest experience.

Our family of museums and parks dedicated to nature

- Audubon Park and Riverview
- Audubon Zoo
- Audubon Aquarium of the Americas
- Entergy Giant Screen Theater
- Woldenberg Riverfront Park
- Audubon Butterfly Garden and Insectarium
- Freeport-McMoRan Audubon Species Survival Center
- Audubon Louisiana Nature Center
- Audubon Wilderness Park

Doing A World of Good

Your Support Means the World

Despite the challenges that 2020 presented, you persisted in preserving and protecting the natural world. Although Audubon Zoo and Audubon Aquarium of the Americas were closed temporarily, your generosity provided outstanding care for the animals and green spaces that you enjoy. You joined more than 3,000 donors in 2020 to feed more than 15,000 animals in our care, and we are so thankful!

"I want to thank you for your support of Audubon, which allows us to provide top notch care to animals like Ruby and Clara."

Higinio Covarrubias
Director of Husbandry
Audubon Aquarium of the Americas

Reopening Partners

Thank you for your generous support!

Special thank you to Audubon's 2020 Reopening Partners, Children's Hospital New Orleans and the New Orleans Pelicans, for their support during a difficult time. Their generosity helped us reopen the Zoo and the Aquarium to the public and inspired hope and optimism about the future.

We Love Our Members

Thank you for your continued support during these challenging times. We deeply appreciate your kind generosity, which ensured your animals felt no impacts from the pandemic. We were thrilled to welcome you back after our temporary closures and look forward to continuing to be a gathering place for you and your family and friends.

Audubon Zoo reopened on June 3 and Audubon Aquarium of the Americas reopened on July 16 after months of closure due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

During the closure, Audubon staff continued to care for more than 15,000 animals while consulting with experts across the country to develop a comprehensive reopening plan. Our generous reopening partners helped make it possible.

Your Animals Need You

Rouses Markets generously donated nutritious meals for Audubon animals for an entire month. Rouses also invited our community to help feed their favorite animals by making a donation at checkout at their neighborhood Rouses Market.

Thank you to New Orleans Area Habitat for Humanity for their large donation of wild bird food! The bird seed was put to good use in the wild bird feeders located throughout Audubon Zoo.

Zoo-To-Do Events Go Virtual

Although we were unable to celebrate Zoo-To-Do events in person, thank you for supporting Audubon's recovery efforts in fun and meaningful ways. Whether you participated in the 2020 Hancock Whitney Zoo-To-Do Silent Auction in partnership with New Orleans Pelicans, took a chance on the Luxury Vehicle Raffle generously donated by LEXUS of New Orleans, or shopped for a cause at our Virtual Kendra Scott Gives Back Fundraiser, we appreciated your support! Thank you also for shaking your tailfeather during our virtual dance party.

Your support played a vital role in wildlife conservation efforts for species like endangered whooping cranes. You also kept your favorite animals happy and healthy and the Zoo vibrant for generations to come. Thank you for ensuring the New Orleans community and visitors from all over the world can continue to celebrate the wonders of nature at Audubon Zoo!

Activate Impact

We build real world impact into everything we do.

Dolphin Rescues

Staff from Audubon's Coastal Wildlife Network, which serves as NOAA Fisheries' primary Marine Mammal Stranding Network partner in Louisiana for responding to and rehabilitating marine mammals, worked with partners to rescue six bottlenose dolphins from strandings resulting from the Louisiana coast's historic hurricane season.

CWN assisted with satellite tagging three of the rescued dolphins with tags provided by the Chicago Zoological Society's Sarasota Dolphin Research Program. The tags collected valuable data on dolphin movements and confirmed all of the animals continued to remain in their environment beyond six weeks—the benchmark for a successful release. Audubon's marine mammal stranding activities are supported by the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, NOAA John H. Prescott Marine Mammal Rescue Assistance Grant Program and EarthEcho International, Inc.

Saving Sea Turtles

Thirty endangered Kemp's ridley sea turtles, part of a massive cold-stunning event along the New England coast, were transported to Audubon November 25-26 for rehabilitation and eventual release into the Gulf of Mexico. Due to severe weather on November 25, the plane was forced to change course and refuel twice and was finally grounded in Chattanooga by a mechanical issue.

Tennessee Aquarium staff graciously took the 30 turtles to an offsite facility and cared for them overnight. On the morning of Thanksgiving Day, the volunteer pilots from Turtles Fly Too loaded the turtles into a transport vehicle and drove them to meet CWN staff halfway to New Orleans. CWN staff arrived at CWN's Aquatic Center with the turtles the evening of November 26.

Once with CWN, the group was dubbed the "Krewe of Turtles" and each was named for a New Orleans Carnival Krewe. Each was also given a physical exam and swim test to help develop a customized rehabilitation plan leading to their eventual release.

Babs the Babirusa

Audubon Zoo is home to two Sulawesi babirusas and works with more than 50 organizations across the world on the Action Indonesia Global Species Management Plan to save anoa, banteng, and babirusa. The biggest threats babirusa face in the wild are habitat loss and illegal hunting for their meat. The Action Indonesia GSMP promotes education about protecting the habitat for all these animals and provides alternatives to hunting these animals into extinction.

A female babirusa named Babs is the newest resident to Audubon Zoo's Hancock Whitney Asian Domain—she came from Louisville Zoo to be a new mate for our male, Wrigley. She gets along great with him and their habitat mate, Hana the Asian small-clawed otter. Babs loves being in the water, and on warm days you can usually find her wading around in the moat or trying to steal fish pieces from Hana.

Community Compost

Beginning in December of 2020, we partnered with Compost NOW to collect community members' frozen food scraps on the veranda of the Audubon Clubhouse to be used for composting. This free residential food waste collection continued every Monday, averaging more than 300 lbs of waste kept out of the landfill. Keeping approximately 1,200 lbs of organic material out of the landfill reduces CO_2 emissions the equivalent of taking almost two cars off the road!

Life and Loss

Working so closely with animals, many in breeding situations, the Audubon family is all too familiar with the fact that death is a part of life and an inevitable sorrow we must suffer for the privilege of having relationships with these incredible creatures.

The team was particularly devastated by the loss of a critically endangered western lowland gorilla infant in September 2020. The six-day-old infant was the first gorilla birth at Audubon Zoo in 24 years and the first offspring for 13-year-old mother Tumani. There are many risks involved with gorilla births and unfortunately, it is not unusual for a first-time gorilla mom to lose an offspring.

Staff had taken extra precautions leading up to the birth, working with Tumani on maternal training to prepare her to be comfortable with the possibility of staff assisting her with feeding or caring for the infant. To prevent undo stress on a new mother and to encourage necessary bonding time, animal care staff and veterinarians do not intervene unless absolutely necessary.

After promising early days, animal care staff observed that the gorilla infant seemed lethargic and weak. The infant was transferred to the Zoo's animal hospital, but the veterinarian team could not revive the infant. Tumani and the entire troop were given the opportunity to grieve the loss of the infant. Thank you for your outpouring of support and sympathy, which helped the staff and troop mourn this deeply painful loss.

There is Hope

The first baby born after quarantine—a female reticulated giraffe calf born at Alliance for Sustainable Wildlife—was named Hope in a fitting tribute to the inherent optimism of the wildlife conservation field. Hope's father, Bobby, was SUCH a successful breeder at ASW that the AZA Species Survival Plan decided that it was time for him to retire and move to a bachelor herd at Chattanooga Zoo. After his departure, we welcomed Gus who is currently the 2nd most genetically valuable male in the country! This tall, dark, and handsome 14-year-old giraffe bull came to us from Philadelphia Zoo and is already enjoying his new expansive, forested home and is a hit with the herd's females.

The giraffe is an AZA SAFE species—SAFE: Saving Animals From Extinction is a program that focuses the collective expertise within AZA-accredited zoos and aquariums to save species in need.

SAFE®
SAVING ANIMALS FROM EXTINCTION

Empower Optimism

We use positivity to empower others to take action.

Australian Bushfire Relief

Audubon Nature Institute joined with other members of the Association of Zoos and Aquariums to raise funds for the Bushfire Emergency Wildlife Fund, which supports Zoos Victoria's relief efforts for Australian wildlife affected by the 2020 bushfires. Donations support emergency veterinary care and scientific intervention, such as exploring supplementary feeding for the animals who have survived but whose habitats have been destroyed by the bushfires.

Thank you to everyone who donated at the front gate, rounded their Audubon retail purchase up to the nearest dollar, or purchased a limited-edition koala or kangaroo plush at the Audubon Zoo Marketplace gift shop.

World Wetlands Day

We celebrated World Wetlands Day at the Zoo to raise awareness for the protection and restoration of crucial wetland habitats and the diverse wildlife that inhabit them.

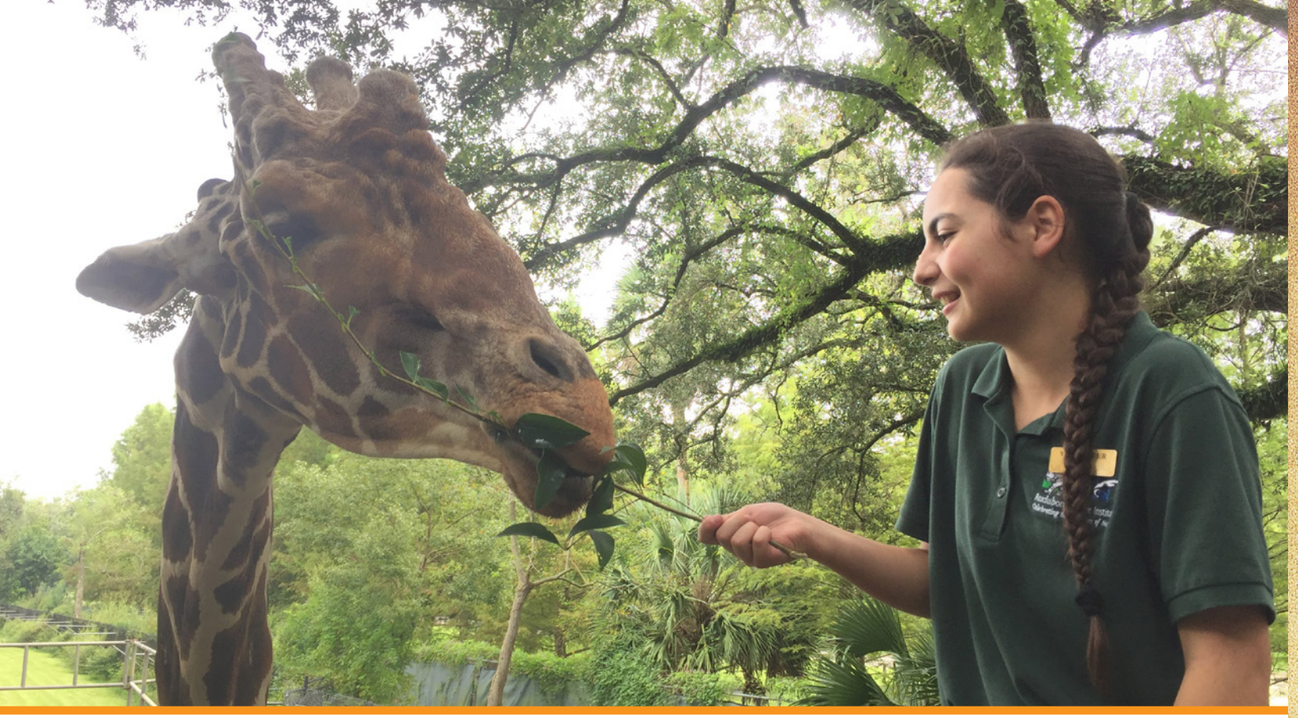
The theme of the 2020 World Wetlands Day was "Wetlands and Biodiversity." Animal care staff featured our well-known native wildlife and many other wetland species found across the globe in different demonstration areas around the Zoo during a fun-filled day featuring animal encounters, keeper chats, a scavenger hunt, crafts, and more to promote the preservation of these vital ecosystems.

New Life

New births continued to arrive throughout the year as a reminder of the perseverance of life in the face of tragedy. Earlier, you read about Hope the giraffe, the first baby born during quarantine. Throughout the year, Hope was followed by Batata the ocelot kitten, Kofola the mandrill, Leo and Perseus the Mississippi sandhill cranes, and more. At the Aquarium, the endangered African penguin chick hatched in March was named Zion in honor of New Orleans Pelicans rookie Zion Williamson, who made headlines with a truly remarkable act of generosity when he committed to covering the salaries of the Smoothie King Center workers for 30 days after the NBA season halted due to the pandemic.

Lights for Lions

Thank you for making the Lights for Lions string light recycling collection at Audubon Zoo a wild success again this year. You kept 1,172 pounds of unwanted string lights out of landfills, and the recycling proceeds were then donated to the Lion Recovery Fund.



Youth Volunteers in Action

Audubon youth volunteer Jenna Thomas used what she learned at Audubon to make a positive impact on the environment and her community. Jenna was an officer in Dominican's Ecology Club, which recently grew an herb garden using their own homemade environmentally friendly pesticides. Dominican's cafeteria began using the herbs, and Jenna helped form a partnership with the nearby restaurant (and G.U.L.F. Restaurant Partner!) Ye Olde College Inn. Jenna and her fellow officers met with head chef Baker Guevara, who was very eager to use their locally grown ingredients.

Jenna and her classmates were also looking for a way to join Audubon in fundraising for Australian bushfire relief. At Jenna's suggestion, they worked with the Zoo gift shop team to obtain plush toys to give away during a "Wildfire Wednesday" fundraiser at their school. They collected $425 in donations to donate to Audubon for Zoos Victoria's Bushfire Emergency Wildlife Fund! Thank you to the Trumbull Family Foundation for making opportunities like this possible for Audubon's youth volunteers.

"Being a youth volunteer and also on the youth council has helped me develop and grow as a person. I've been able to meet so many amazing people who share the same views about animals that I do."

— Christine Dagoglou, Audubon Youth Volunteer

As our youth volunteers graduate high school and move on to new adventures, they take with them their love of the natural world.

Create Connection

We engage others to serve their needs and tackle challenges together.

Closing for COVID ... and Reopening

While all facilities closed to the public on March 14, caring for your animals and parks did not stop. Your support ensured they thrived during these challenging times and allowed Audubon to reopen to the public. The Zoo reopened in limited capacity on June 3, the Nature Center trails reopened on June 22, and the Aquarium reopened on July 16. Audubon Butterfly Garden and Insectarium did not reopen to the public and will instead be moving key exhibitry to Audubon Aquarium of the Americas as part of plans to revitalize Audubon's downtown campus and offer guests a new experience.

An Extraordinary Team

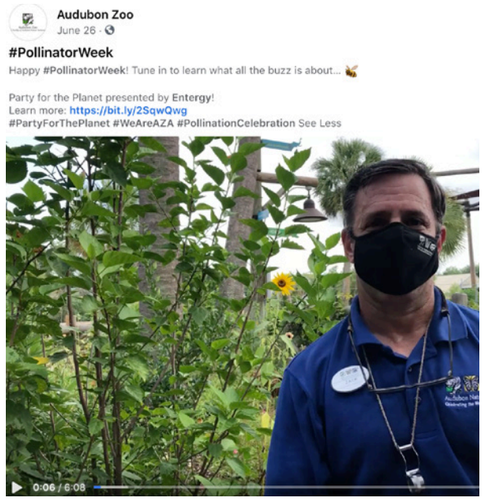
Audubon Nature Institute has always been an organization built on a sense of stewardship for the natural world and a cultivation of a sense of wonder in the children and families of our community. The COVID-19 pandemic was not the first crisis that Audubon has weathered—notably, we survived Hurricane Katrina and rebuilt stronger than ever—but it was a shining example of the dedication and kindness of the staff that make up Audubon Nature Institute. After forced closures created a severe budget crisis requiring laying off 75% of the team, the remaining members showed their dedication and kindness by volunteering in critical guest-facing departments, while performing their normal duties, to allow the facilities to remain open to the public. Throughout it all and despite the personal challenges we all faced during the pandemic, the Audubon team remained positive and upbeat, always ready with a smile for a guest or words of encouragement for a teammate.

Staying Connected

Across Audubon, teams found new ways to stay connected with our community and adapt guest-favorite events to new COVID safety protocols. The Education team offered virtual outreach programs for children across the state. These virtual programs allow students to discover amazing animals with Audubon educators as they explore nature and science together. Each 45-minute lesson combined science topics aligned with Louisiana state science standards and live animal presentations. Students could interact in real time with educators and live animals through streaming video conferencing as they discover new things about the world around them. Thanks to the support of Shell, Chevron, and the New Orleans Pelicans, Audubon was able to offer virtual programming to Title 1 schools in Louisiana free of charge.

Virtual Events

Audubon celebrated Mother's Day and Party for the Planet presented by Entergy with fun social media posts and curated web pages filled with educational resources and activity ideas for families to enjoy the wonders of nature together safely from home.



Peek-a Boo at the Zoo

Audubon and Children's Hospital New Orleans transformed our annual nighttime Halloween fundraiser, Boo at the Zoo, into a COVID-safe feature of the daytime Zoo experience dubbed Peek-a-Boo at the Zoo benefiting Children's Hospital New Orleans and Audubon Zoo. The wildly popular program was enjoyed by nearly 30,000 Zoo visitors over two weekends in October and raised funds to directly support patients at Children's Hospital New Orleans through the sale of "Boo in a Bag" treat bags.

The Night Sky

While Audubon Louisiana Nature Center's planetarium may have been closed for the majority of 2020, Audubon educators made sure our community could still enjoy the incredible night sky right from their own backyards! The NOLA Night Sky video series was one of the most popular parts of Virtual Community Connection that gave viewers different stargazing experiences, including companion activities that could be done at home.

Community Access

Audubon continued its Community Connect access initiative in 2020. The program involves three components: Orleans Parish Appreciation Days, which offer free admission to an Audubon attraction for Orleans Parish residents on Wednesdays (attractions available on a rotating schedule); the Audubon SNAP Program, which provides free admission to Audubon attractions every day for Orleans Parish SNAP benefit recipients and their families; and the Audubon Museum Culture Pass, which allows Orleans Parish Public Library cardholders to check out passes that can be used at any Audubon attraction. Despite months-long closures of the Zoo and Aquarium, Community Connect made it possible for more than 30,000 community members to visit Audubon facilities (as compared to just under 40,000 in 2019).

Taylor Scholars

Thanks to the Patrick F. Taylor Foundation, more than 196,000 high-achieving students in grades 7 through 12 statewide received complimentary admission to Audubon Zoo and Aquarium as part of the ongoing Taylor Scholars Awards Program that rewards Louisiana students' hard work

Discount Admission

Audubon also offered half-priced admission to the Zoo and Aquarium to residents of parishes affected by Hurricane Laura September 7 through October 4 and to residents and employees of Jefferson Parish during Jefferson Parish Appreciation Day on December 12.

Places of Support

Throughout the year, Audubon facilities remained sources of community support, providing public parks as places for much-needed outdoor recreation and relaxation during the months when many indoor activities were unsafe and serving as sites for community aid events like a City of New Orleans Flu Vaccine drive, a Second Harvest Food Bank food distribution day, and Temple Sinai's drive-thru Hanukkah candle-lighting ceremony.

Lead the Pack

We think big, innovate, and challenge convention to lead the change we want to see.

Advocating for Zoos and Aquariums

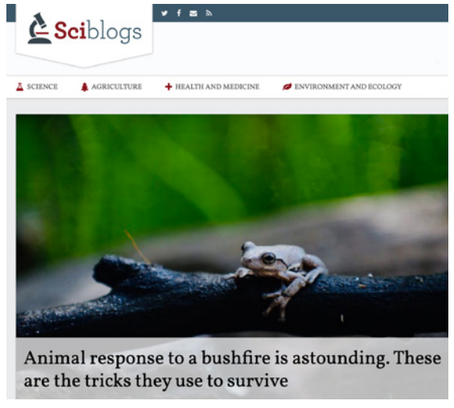
Audubon joined the Association of Zoos and Aquariums and other AZA-accredited institutions in petitioning Congress to make federal financial relief available to zoos and aquariums, which were financially devastated by the pandemic but never took a break from caring for their animals. While some zoos and aquariums qualified for the Paycheck Protection Program in the first COVID relief bill, because of its large number of employees, Audubon did not. Audubon reached out to other similarly situated organizations and helped form what was dubbed "the Zoo Krewe" to advocate for wildlife conservation and cultural organizations to local, state, and federal legislators. Their efforts paid off when the third and fourth federal COVID relief bills passed included a provision called the "Shuttered Venue Operators Grant," which provided funding opportunities for larger zoos, aquariums, and museums—like Audubon—that had been shut out of previous programs. Thank you to everyone who advocated for zoos and aquariums.

Reptile Spotlight

2020 was a prolific year for the Zoo's Herpetology Department, which published papers and notes in prestigious scientific journals, some of which garnered international attention.

In the beginning of the year, "A wake-up call for sleepy lizards: the olfactory-driven response of Tiliqua rugosa (Reptilia: Squamata: Sauria) to smoke and its implications for fire avoidance behavior," an article by Audubon Herpetology staff published in the Journal of Ethology, was referenced by several international news sites and well-known science blogs to call attention to some of the ways in which wild animals respond to and survive wildfires in the context of the massive bushfires that raged through Australia.

Audubon's Herpetology team was also the first to describe a most unusual behavior—underwater breathing in a terrestrial species of anole (the very common lizard species you would find in your gardens at home)—in a Natural History note in Herpetological Review. The team also published a paper reviewing more than a century of reptile and amphibian thefts from zoological parks, highlighting some of the more brazen and outlandish incidents, in the German publication Der Zoologische Garten.



Largest Release of Louisiana Pine Snakes

On June 4, 2020, representatives from Audubon Zoo, Memphis Zoo, and the U.S. Forestry Service released 41 zoo-hatched Louisiana pine snakes into the Kisatchie National Forest, marking the largest wild release to date of the United States' rarest snake species.

In 2020, the organizations involved in the Louisiana Pine Snake Recovery Program, including Audubon Zoo, published a note in the journal Herpetological Review reporting for the first time successful reproduction in the wild from pine snakes hatched in AZA zoos. This milestone indicates that at least some of the zoo-bred offspring released over the last several years are not only surviving in the Kisatchie National Forest, but also reproducing on their own—an important step toward the species' recovery.

30th Aquaversary

Audubon Aquarium of the Americas celebrated its 30th "Aquaversary"! Since opening its doors on September 1, 1990, the Aquarium has welcomed nearly 30 million visitors. Thirty years ago, our community had a vision to transform the New Orleans Riverfront to become the center of promise it is today. Thank you for your incredible spirit and hard work in making this remarkable journey possible.

Crane Recovery

Critical conservation work continued as Freeport-McMoRan Audubon Species Survival Center's Whooping Crane Recovery Program was awarded a large grant by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to make improvements to the existing breeding and rearing facility and to hire a new keeper. The Whooping Crane Recovery Program is also supported by Chevron and Coypu Foundation.

Plastic Free July

Despite the complications presented by COVID, Audubon again led the fight against plastic pollution by hosting the "Plastic Free NOLA" team in the 2020 Plastic Free July Ecochallenge, a month-long effort to shift away from our single-use plastic dependency and to care for our ecosystems. Thank you to the 106 team members who helped keep more than 3,200 disposable items from entering the waste stream. Plastic Free NOLA came in 14th out of 381 teams that participated in the challenge nationwide!

Gulf United for Lasting Fisheries

In 2020, the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries completed a new bycatch study for the Louisiana shrimp fishery. Audubon's sustainable seafood program, G.U.L.F., helped push this project forward through its management of the Louisiana Shrimp Fishery Improvement Project, which works to improve the sustainability of the fishery. They also manage shrimp FIPs in Texas, Mississippi, and Alabama.

On the Move

In 2020, Audubon Zoo transferred four tomistomas, or Sunda gharials (a freshwater crocodilian species native to Indonesia), hatched at the Zoo since 2014 to Tierpark Berlin in Berlin, Germany. These individuals, which are genetically unrelated to other tomistoma specimens in European zoos, will increase the genetic diversity of the European population for future conservation breeding efforts. After nearly two years of planning and preparations and rigorous physical health examinations by Audubon Zoo's veterinarians, the tomistomas arrived safely at their new home in Berlin, where they will serve as ambassadors for their species to more than a million visitors each year.

Diverse Suppliers

Audubon's annual goal is to spend at least 20% with diverse suppliers, including Small Businesses under the Hudson Incentive, Veteran-Owned, Minority-Owned, and Women-Owned Businesses. Our total supplier diversity purchases for 2020 exceeded that goal at $3,695,744 or 29%.

Sustainable Practices

Audubon is committed to continually increasing our sustainable business practices. In 2020, we:

- Eliminated single-use plastic items at Zoofari Café.
- Hosted community compost collection site at Audubon Clubhouse through a partnership with Compost NOW.
- Upgraded lights to LED in Zoo Administration Building, Zoo parking lot, Audubon Park and Clubhouse parking lot, and Audubon Riverview.
- Collected broken string lights for the third year for recycling through our Lights for Lions program.

Paper straws replaced single use plastic straws at the Audubon Park Clubhouse, in concession areas where straws are available, and at private events at our facilities. Plastic items such as forks, knives, and spoons have been replaced with tableware made from renewable resources that can also be recycled.

Recognizing Our Volunteer Corps

Thank you to our volunteers who play an essential role in helping Audubon Nature Institute Celebrate the Wonders of Nature. In 2020, the volunteer corps contributed 12,847 hours of time, offered community support when our facilities closed due to COVID-19, and helped us to reopen. Volunteer divers assisted staff at Audubon Aquarium of the Americas while others were dedicated to helping rehabilitate the cold-stunned sea turtles at Freeport-McMoRan Audubon Species Survival Center.

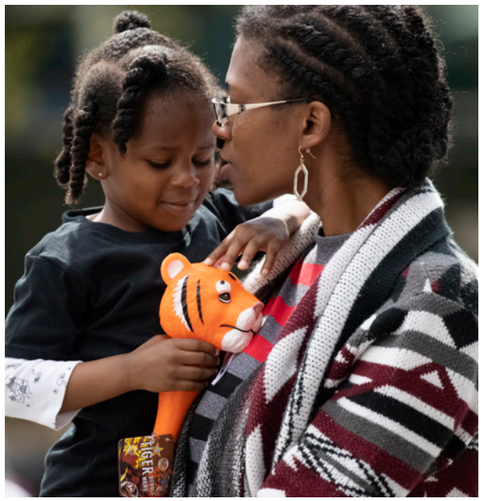
Le Bon Temps

We infuse the joyful culture of Louisiana into the everyday.

A Festival with Soul

Just before the pandemic forced Audubon Zoo to close, it hosted the 17th annual Soul Fest presented by AARP, a joyful two-day family festival March 7 and 8 that featured soul food and live music by local jazz, R&B, and gospel artists performing on the Capital One Bank Stage.



Animal Enrichment

One way our animal care staff keep the animals (and themselves!) entertained is by theming the enrichment they provide to the animals around our human holidays. Last year, the Audubon animals celebrated Mother's Day, St. Patrick's Day, Mardi Gras, Halloween, and more!

While the Zoo and Aquarium were closed to the public, they were still fully operational behind the scenes. One of the ways your animals enjoy a great quality of life is through engaging enrichment activities that keep their minds and bodies stimulated. Staff took advantage of the empty facilities to let some animals explore the facilities (supervised, of course) and meet some fellow residents.

African penguin Marina toured the Aquarium, including the Great Maya Reef (photos of which inspired a Photoshop battle on the website Reddit!) and the mesmerizing Jellies gallery.

At the Zoo, Benito, the youngest alpaca in the Jaguar Jungle herd, walked around the Zoo with his care team, the flamingos had a swimming lesson in Cool Zoo's Gator Run lazy river, ferret Finn got to say hello to lioness Nia (through the glass!), and the residents of Watoto Walk helped out our Facilities team by doing some lawn maintenance.

Welcome Back!

Thank you for helping Audubon Zoo and Aquarium remain places of joyful gathering for our community.

> "I just wanted to pass along a positive message to the Zoo staff about our visit. Even though the pandemic makes for tough times, the staff at the Zoo was amazing! From the parking lot staff and ticket takers to the people sitting directing the flow of visitors to the ones cleaning and sanitizing, we were greeted with smiles and pleasant voices. (We couldn't see those smiles behind the masks, but we could hear them in the voices and in the pep in their step). Audubon Zoo is a wonderful place to visit ... thank you for being a bright spot even in the midst of the pandemic."

Feed the Animals

In December, Commander's Palace and Audubon Zoo teamed up to create a special réveillon feast for the animals at the Zoo. In New Orleans, food and the holidays go hand-in-hand, and Commander's Palace is one of the most iconic places to eat, especially for the holidays. So, why should holiday treats just be limited to humans?

Thank you to Commander's Executive Chef Meg Bickford who took on the challenge of creating réveillon delicacies, carefully considering the varying dietary restrictions of each selected animal to create a one-of-a-kind feast.
